Dear Sir,

We are producing a series of cultural television programmes on Art which will be introduced by the well-known critic John Berger. For this we should be grateful for permission to reproduce the following painting:-

Douanier Rousseau: "Tiger Attacking a Buffalo".

Should you be agreeable, would you please send us a matt black and white photographic reproduction of this painting by the middle of July, which is the deadline for our programme.

We should like as clear a reproduction as possible in order to do the picture full justice. We will, of course, state in this programme that this picture is at The Cleveland Museum of Art.

Will you please let us know if you require a copyright fee, and if so we would like it to cover any future transmission of this programme whether in the United Kingdom or elsewhere in the world.

I should like to say now how grateful we are for any help you can manage to give us in this matter. There is, I'm afraid, some urgency about this as we begin working on these programmes at the end of this month.

Yours faithfully,
FOR GRANADA TV NETWORK LIMITED.

Joyce Ince.
